From Our Board President & Executive Director

Dear Friends,

2019 was a landmark year for the Pennsylvania Innocence Project as we celebrated our ten-year anniversary. The Project was founded by a group of visionaries in 2008, to address the alarming problem of a remarkable number of people held in Pennsylvania prisons who had powerful claims of actual innocence. When we opened our doors in 2009, we were almost immediately greeted with over 300 letters from incarcerated people waiting for our help. Since then, working with many outstanding and deeply committed pro bono partners, we have freed and secured exonerations for 17 people convicted of crimes they did not commit. We have freed another 4 people who are still fighting to prove their innocence.

In 2019, we were thrilled to welcome home Willie Veasy, John Miller, Larry Trent Roberts, and Chester Hollman, all of whom were exonerated through our work. Together they served 90 years — almost a century — in prison as innocent men. Each was arrested while young and robbed of the opportunity to attend college or learn a trade, start a family, begin careers, and enjoy the prime years of their lives. Each exonerate fought many years to prove his innocence and gain his freedom.

In the fall, we had the great pleasure of celebrating our tenth anniversary with many of you at major events in both Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. In Philadelphia, we joined together at the fitting venue of the National Constitution Center, and in Pittsburgh we did so at the new offices of Buchanan Ingersoll & Rooney PC, the law firm of our outgoing Board President, Howard Scher. We had the honor of hearing at both events from Dr. Yusef Salaam, one of “The Exonerated Five,” who was wrongly convicted in 1990 of a highly publicized rape in New York’s Central Park. We also had the opportunity to honor at these events each of our 17 exonerates, and to recognize and honor the vital work of our former Executive Director, Marissa Bluestine. The enthusiasm and support for our work was palpable at these events, making them tremendous successes.

What began as a vision a decade ago is now a powerful force for the innocent throughout the Commonwealth, with a staff of ten and offices in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. In addition to our litigation work, our Transition to Innocence program, conceived of in 2018, really took root and thrived in 2019. We are proud to be able to connect with and assist our exonerated clients through this facilitated peer group program. And we continued in 2019 to focus on important policy initiatives, including the need to obtain clemency for certain innocent inmates who, because of procedural hurdles or other issues, may have no other form of relief.

We have transitioned smoothly into our second decade, and we are poised and excited to take on the many challenges that continue to face us. Perhaps the most difficult part of our work is knowing how long an innocent person remains in prison while fighting for their freedom and knowing how many innocent people remain in prison in part because we simply cannot address every case at once. The average exonerated case takes between 7 and 13 years of complex, time consuming litigation. And we continue to receive approximately 500 letters each year from Pennsylvanians who seek our assistance.

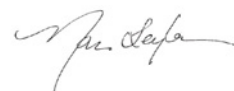

With your support we fight for justice for the innocent in Pennsylvania, day in and day out. Your support enables us to continue to grow, and our continued growth enables us to seek justice for more and more individuals.

We, and everyone else at the Pennsylvania Innocence Project, thank you for all that you have done in our first decade, and all that we know you will do to make our work possible in our future.

Our warm regards,

Samuel W. Silver
President, Board of Directors
